THE SAINTS AMONG US

There are those people in each of our lives that we often refer to as being a "saint". Most of these people are so modest, so humble, that they don't see themselves as being a saint. They think of "saints" as being one of those listed in the honor roll of saints in the 11th chapter of Hebrews, along with the disciples and apostles of the New Testament.

These saints were like many people today. They were people who do their jobs, show up, work hard, and live right all their lives. But within them there is a quality of faith, a storehouse of strength, an inner reserve of peace-filled power that sets them apart.

- the dad who gets up at dawn, works construction all day, then coaches other people's kids until evening falls
- the parent who packs a napkin inscribed with "I LOVE YOU" into the midst of their child's peanut butter sandwich lunch box
- the elderly neighbor who keeps an eye on front doors and latch-key kids until younger neighbors get home
- the younger neighbor who lends a hand to move sprinklers and shovel snow for the elder neighbor
- the teacher who told you, "I know you can do it," and stood by you until you did.

Each of you can add to this list. Each of us has "saints" in our lives. In worship and praise let us thank God for the "saints" who have touched our lives in a significant way.

Calvin
